“...In spite of their youth, their gentle way of playing is outstandingly beautiful. They are notable artists, who always remember to include music composed by Hungarians.”

Valencia (Spain)

Új Magyarország (Hungary)

“The Ferenc Erkel Chamber Orchestra proved to its audience that Tchaikovsky’s famous String Serenade, thi brilliant – but in cheap performance syrupy – composition is a real jewel; if it is performed at a technical level and spiritual readiness worthy of it. It was a stunning production, not in the spirit of sterile perfection, but in the spirit of flaming talent, with a beautiful stress of never heard musical turns, and inner motions.”

(Las Provincias)

“The find of the Festival! - The audience gave the Ferenc Erkel Chamber Orchestra a standing ovation!

The excellent music of the orchestra from Budapest was accompanied by a stormy success. At the beginning of their concert it was obvious that we would be in a perfect performance; later this was proved true.” - “...They really inspired the audience who gave them a standing ovation. The orchestra were called back for giving encore six times, every times to a steady burst of applause.”
